

to Merit

Hey, sweet Merit, I am writing to explain the funny little situation we have (or rather I have with you). I guess the prose is a bit nonlinear, non logical, and nonsensical, but hey, so are the thoughts and emotions and feelings

So, I met you, I liked you very fast. You are the first person I liked since a long time, and the first one since coming to France. I liked you before knowing your age, and the age wasn't the problem after I learned it.

I loved just talking to you that evening, you are very sweet, smart, kind, and many more other things. Also, you are very beautiful. You are the most beautiful person I have ever met, and that's already quite enough to fall for someone. I just got lucky, and that someone also turned out to be a very nice person from each side I could see.

Next morning, I woke up, immediately asked Aigerim for your contacts, asked you out for a coffee. You said no. Okay, understandable. But now, I kinda have a reference and everyone I meet is very much below it.

A year later, I see you again. Everything is well. I might've gathered too much thoughts and drank too much and said too much to you that evening. Still, nothing bad or angry or malicious.

Then we met a few times.

So, I still of course like you very much. Nothing changed. I like you even more now, and why I wouldn't've. You are still a sweet, nice, pretty person. Like, I have absolutely no reasons to stop liking you.

You don't like me, it's okay. I don't expect you to like me, I don't ask it.

I don't think it's the age thing, though. You just don't like me, and it's okay. People rarely do, so I am not surprised by you not liking me, at least statistically.

It's okay. You do not need to like me. But also, please, please, please, don't blame me for liking you. It's so easy to fall for you, it's so effortless to like you, it's so serene to be around you. How can I be blamed for that?

I guess, people fall in love for you everyday anyways. You would've fallen for you, if you were at my place. So, please, don't be surprised or angry at me for doing that.

Also, aren't you like used to it by now? People running after you, hihi. I am sorry to be one of them.

And sometimes I say things when we are all together and you scream "red flag!", well, okay, it happened 3 times only, still quite a lot. You were the only one saying that. And the things were not that bad or anything.

Sometimes, I feel like you are trying to find reasons not to like me, it makes me a bit sad. You don't need specific reasons to not like me. You already do. I dunno.

I am not that bad either, actually. I don't know why you only see red flags. I have many green flags too, I believe. But you will see them yellow anyways, and then you'll round it down to red.

Anyways, you are still a cutie patootie, I can't stop liking you just right now. I like you very very much hihi.

It'll pass. Don't worry. It can't last forever, I guess.

But yeah, for now, I kinda avoid other people in the romantic sense, until it passes, so maybe it makes it harder to end.

But hey, what can I do?! I can't find better than you. I also can't be with someone until I have feelings for you. I also can't stop feelings for you until idk what condition.

I don't know, Merit. Please, just don't blame me and please please don't feel responsible for this. I am really lighthearted about this situation. You are the best person to feel this way about anyways.

AAAH. I don't know. Again. I love you platonically too, very much. So I am really happy just chatting and talking to ya. We can't meet everyday, sure. You are very busy. But it still a bit sour that we can't even meet to talk. I love talking to ya, I love learning things about you. You are nice. You are my mountains. You are my yellow

I am okay with this regime, with this setting. I don't think that I would want more from you right now. I am in a silly time of my life, and I am so autistic and embarrassing around you. And, for me, love must be unforced, light, easy coming, mutual anyways. It is not that case. So, it's okay. I don't expect more. Maybe I would not like more.

On the other hand, like, of course I would like more. I would like to do everything for you. Always be emotionally and physically available for you. Just always be around, when needed. I would like to know Estonian, to hear about your native emotions. Of course, I like you, I would trade many things to be with you. I would trade 11 years of my life to be at the same age and life stage as you, I would love to. However, I can't and I shouldn't. You wouldn't like me in this scenario anyways, for some other reason now. And if you liked me, well, it doesn't hurt if I am younger, can't see problems with that.

I like your cute little peculiarities, your strong and interesting character. You are like a female character I would've written if I could write better. I like how you come on time and we usually are the only ones. I liked how we both already looked at the menu and made choices before coming to a place. I like how we both jump scared Karina like 45 seconds apart from each other ahahahahh. I don't know, Merit. I kinda like everything I hear about or from you. What can I do?

I am not even romanticizing you. I've had quite enough time to be real about the situation. I think, we are alike in the end. But it doesn't matter at that point. Not much good can come out of this imbalanced story. I understand it.

I keep and hone all the memories about you. I am happy to see you at least more than once per year.

I like you romantically. I am attracted to you in all the sensed. I respect you deeply.

I have no agenda for you though. I mean, I can't make you like me. I can't do much for it. I don't believe it works like that. I am not trying to conquest you, to win you over. I am not waiting for anything specific.

When I ask you out or ask to walk you home. I just want to have a few more moments with you, as I really enjoy each one of them.

I don't know what I should do. What you should do. What we can do.

I can't list all the reasons you might want to like me for. You can't list all the reasons I might stop liking you for. It doesn't work like that.

Yep, a bit too much of everything. I am still confused myself, very much so. I am sorry aaaaaah. Maybe just seeing each other, once in a while, with our Eastern block, and some sitcom style jokes about the situation will eventually wash it away.

So, overall

1. Please, don't be mad at me and don't blame me for all that. Who wouldn't've done the same, at my place?
2. Please, don't feel responsibility or blame for anything
3. Please, don't just cut me off
4. It'll pass, eventually. Don't worry
5. However, if one day in the future, you'll be interested, let me know ahah. We'll meet again, from 0. By that time I will be better

Hey, Merit. I really really like you. I kinda love you or, at least, would love to love you.

But okay, maybe in another life, the stars are right there, the timing is right, we are a bit different, more compatible!

Sorry for the troubles!